Sheila E. Event “Angels in the Vineyard,” Postponed to Spring 2010

Elevate Hope Foundation Cites Lagging Corporate Sponsorship and Industry Involvement

(Los Angeles, CA – July 27, 2009) Angels In The Vineyard, originally scheduled to take place on Saturday, August 8, 2009 at South Coast Winery Resort & Spa, in Temecula, California has been postponed due to lack of corporate sponsorship and industry support. Rather than cancel the fundraiser, which would raise money to help build the Compassion Care Center of the Arts, providing therapy to abused and neglected kids through music and the arts, EHF has chosen to reschedule.

“Our children are in the fight of their very lives,” Ms. Escovedo said, “We’ve had children get lost in the system and/or emancipated without being prepared with detrimental consequences. Not long ago, one of them felt hopeless and took drastic measures by ending his life. This is why we are so determined. I refuse to stand by and watch another child lose hope or his or her life. I also refuse to believe the entertainment industry and corporate sector are blind or insensitive to the needs of our kids. In many cases, this is life or death. We are definitely rescheduling the event.”

The new date is tentatively scheduled for Saturday, April 17th, 2010. Organizers hope to raise sufficient awareness, corporate sponsorships and entertainment industry support by then to produce a successful fundraising event the entire community can enjoy.

Information about sponsorships, volunteering or other involvement may be obtained from the Elevate Hope Foundation website at www.elevatehope.org, or by calling 818-780-5300.
